

WE HOPE YOU'LL JOIN US!

Facebook is one thing, but actually hearing your old friends' voices, sharing memories about them with their families, laughing together in real time? That's what Reunion is all about.

If you haven't decided, here is a bit of information about the weekend . . .

Do you miss your dorm room days—lounging on your single bed, chatting with your roommate, enjoying the breeze through the window? If you want to relive your experience on campus where all the Reunion action happens (and where you have free parking), dorm room reservations will be available in late March, with your registration materials. But if you'd rather stay off campus at a hotel with a private room and bathroom, air-conditioning, and housekeeping, you should reserve now. See hotel info on the right.

There are more than 600 scheduled activities! The president's State of the University Address. Zip-lines, canoes, and guided hikes. Cornelliana Night. The Olin Lecture from a famous thought leader. Exhibits at the Johnson Museum and the libraries. College breakfasts. Tent parties on the Arts Quad. Class-specific dinners, activities, and lectures.

There are thousands of unscheduled activities. Bear hugs from long-lost floor-mates. McGraw Tower climbs. Birdwatching at Sapsucker Woods. Ice cream cones at the new Dairy Bar. Sunsets over Cayuga Lake.

Your Reunion Chairs are working hard to set pricing, choose caterers, and plan class-specific activities. Look for that information in January.

In the meantime, visit alumni.cornell.edu/reunion for your Reunion chair contact information and your class headquarters' location. Also, please consider making a gift to Cornell in honor of your Reunion campaign by visiting giving.cornell.edu/give.

Want to stay in a dorm room? Register in March.
